

The 11th HITH Society Annual Scientific Meeting will be held at the Stamford Plaza, Brisbane, 21-23 November 2018.

This is the first time the Conference has been held in the Sunshine State of Queensland.

New location, new ideas, new thinking!

Confirmed International Speaker

Karen Titchener MS, APRN

Director Hospital at Home, Adjunct Assistant Professor
College of Nursing, Huntsman Cancer Institute,
University of Utah

The Keynote Speaker has been announced!

Professor Philip Darbyshire, began nursing nearly 40 years ago. He trained and worked in Intellectual disability and children's nursing before moving into nursing education and child health research. He gained his Masters degree in Glasgow and his PhD in Edinburgh. He is internationally recognized as a leader in nursing & health care research and service development.

Prof. Darbyshire will address two topics:

The future of Hospital in the Home – is there one?

In this session Prof Darbyshire will ask some profoundly difficult questions the HITH movement of the future will need to grapple with

A Researcher Looks at Leadership

This presentation takes a critical look at the leadership phenomenon. It may not be comfortable, but it is essential.

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

The Call for Abstracts is now open and the Committee are keen to receive submissions focused on the theme of LEARN with HITH: Lead, Engage, Aspire, Research and Negotiate. Each of these themes will be addressed in the sessions through the Call for Abstracts and the invited speakers. For more information on the Call for Abstracts please visit the conference website. Abstract submission closes on 31 August 2018.

hithsocietyconference.com.au